Albaida Valley

Made in the Albaida Valley

The Albaida Valley houses a strong business fabric, united in a single area, fostering a business culture in which quality, innovation and excellence prevail.

The Albaida Valley Business Confederation (COEVAL) was created at the end of 1996 with the basic objective of combining the efforts of the different sector organisations and companies based in this region.

COEVAL brings together a range of diverse sectors, such as textile, construction and hospitality, as well as graphic arts, commerce, business services, metalwork, wax manufacturing, food, transportation, electricity, crafts, glass, plastic, industrial supplies, etc.

They are all governed by the same criterion, to create products in which quality, innovation and excellence prevail.

TEXTILE INDUSTRY

The Albaida Valley is a geographical and historical reference for the traditional Valencian textile sector. In our region, expert companies are located in the textile value chain, from the initial design stage through to local manufacturing and commercial exploitation globally.

METALWORKING INDUSTRY

Metalworking industry, capital goods adapted to different industrial activities and services.

Auxiliary economic activities and suppliers of the equipment required in the manufacture of textile products emerged from the textile industry.

This means that the Albaida Valley is home to numerous companies manufacturing specialised machinery for the design, preparation and finishing of textile products. The ability of traditional textile companies to integrate the latest technologies, automation and digital transformation contributes to improving their productive capacity and energy efficiency.

The metalworking industry has also been able to adapt to economic cycles and has therefore diversified its textile expertise to other sectors such as automotive, agrifood, recycling, etc. An example of knowhow applied to new demand.

R

RECYCLING INDUSTRY
